STAFF BIO

This is my 18th year of teaching math, economics and government, and my 14th year at Canyon Hills High School. Before teaching, I had a 22 year career in the investment industry, specializing as a stock market analyst covering internet, media, and consumer companies. In the middle of my investment career, my wife and I took 2 and 1/2 years to serve in the Peace Corps in Honduras where I worked on Small Business Development.

My greatest joy in life is my 3 children and their partners.

When I'm not teaching, I love to run, bike, hike, play basketball, and camp. I'm originally from Wisconsin, so I follow the Green Bay Packers, Milwaukee Bucks, Wisconsin Badgers, and Milwaukee Brewers. I also love reading. My favorite authors are Mark Twain and John Steinbeck.

I originally came to California to attend Stanford University where I majored in Economics/Political Science. In 2002, I moved to San Diego from Minneapolis because I missed the ocean and mountains.
